PRESENTATION – DAVINIA CANN, CAUDWELL CHILDREN

Davinia Cann works for Caudwell Children, an independent charity with the mission to transform the lives of children and their families, enabling them to challenge the barriers they face throughout childhood. Charity is building a new centre of excellence in England which will be a centre for working with and accessing children with Autism Spectrum. This should be ready and open in 2017. Children within NI will be able to access things in this building and children waiting on a diagnosis will be able to use the services also.

Davinia provided information on Family Services which offer vital support to families caring for a disabled child or a young person (0-18). The service can provide telephone, email and face to face support to help families to make informed choices and gain access to equipment, treatment, therapies and local services they need. Trained volunteers help with practical necessities like applying for grants, finding local support groups and information about medical conditions. These volunteers are supported by Davinia. Caudwell Children will provide 80% funding for equipment and other charities are good at coming up with ways of helping families with the other 20%. Families will be signposted to other charities and who to contact.

Families can self-refer into the service if they have a disabled or seriously ill child aged 0-18 years. This is a free service and will support families to gain access to:

- Therapy
- Treatment
- Support Groups
- Equipment
- Help in identifying grants and sources of funding
- Information relating to medical conditions
- Signposting to specialist sources of advice.

Information was provided on some of the equipment that can be provided to families which help to increase a child's independence and quality of life. Wheelchairs, therapy tricycles, specialised car seats and sensory equipment could be provided. Caudwell Children work closely with 3 suppliers in the Northern Area to enable them to get this equipment for families in need.
